HISTORY AND OBJECTS.

The Boston Asylum and Farm School for Indigent Boys was founded in 1835 by an Act of the Legislature uniting two previously existing Corporations.

The older of these, the Boston Asylum for Indigent Boys, had been incorporated in 1814: the persons named in the act being William Phillips, James Lloyd, William Sullivan, Benjamin Green, and Samuel H. Walley. Its object was "to rescue the most abject and forlorn, as well as those in a state of vagrancy who, roaming from their parents, although young in years, become old in the crimes of stealing, swearing and lying." The only survivor of the gentlemen who were connected with this society, Edward S. Rand, Esq., in a letter dated February 6, 1883, gives almost the only information we have on the subject, in these words:

"The Boston Asylum for Indigent Boys was incorporated in 1814, and in 1820 purchased the large estate on the corner of Salem and Charter Streets, formerly the residence of the Colonial Governor, Sir William Phipps, as a home for the boys under its care. The estate, which was at one time owned by Madam Mary Haley, the sister of the celebrated John Wilkes, [and] afterwards the wife of Patrick Jeffrey, was a large tract of land, measuring nearly one hundred feet on Salem St., and about 180ft. on Charter St., and embraced not only the lots on Salem St., but also those on both sides of Phipps Place, which was laid out over the land from Charter Street. The house fronted on Salem St., and stood about fifty feet back from the street. It was a large brick edifice originally two stories in height, to which a third story was afterwards added; and in its spacious apartments, which in the olden times had witnessed all the pomp and circumstance of the representative of royalty, it afforded ample accommodations to the humble recipients of a charity which sought to rescue them from crime and misery."

In 1832 the Boston Farm School Society was formed, the object being as its Constitution declared, "the education of boys belonging to the city of Boston, who, from extraordinary exposure to moral evil, require peculiar provision for the forming of their character, and for promoting and securing the usefulness and happiness of their lives; and who have not yet fallen into those crimes which require the interposition of the law to punish or restrain them." An appeal to the public produced a sum of nearly $23,000.00, besides $300.00 and more of annual subscription. Thompson's Island, in Boston Harbor, was bought for $6,000, and the erection of suitable buildings at once begun. In March, 1833, an Act of Incorporation was obtained.*

*Among the scanty memorials of the early days of the institutions is the following copy of an old record, which is worth preserving for its bearing on the history of the island. Edward Rawson who attests it, was Secretary of the Colony.

The Rev. E. M. Wells, whose life was devoted to charitable and religious work among the poor appears by the earliest record of the Farm School to have been an active and incessant labourer in laying the foundations of the island colony. On "Easter Monday, April 8, 1833, desirous of commencing the operations of the future Farm School on so appropriate a day," Mr. Wells, with Mr. Cook, and three boys his wards made their first visit to the island; had prayers in the farm house; and planted a mulberry tree and some potatoes. On the 6th. of June, Mr. Wells moved permanently to the island with fourteen boys. The record book of the Farm School ends Nov. 26, 1833, with this entry: "God bless the Farm School, and make it what its benevolent originators intend it—to seek and to save that which is lost. E. M. P. Wells."

In 1834, the older society found that its building in Salem Street was so much decayed as to need very expensive repairs; and at the same time the Farm School had run short of funds, and was unwilling to appeal again to the public in a season of commercial depression. The union of the two bodies was not a new idea ; their objects were nearly identical ; the Asylum looked with longing eyes on the salubrious site in the harbor, where the possession of a farm would extend its means of usefulness ; and many who were interested in both societies believed that they would do more effectual work together. The two corporations accordingly joined in a petition for an Act uniting them in one ; and on the 5th of March, 1835 the Legislature granted an Act of Incorporation creating THE BOSTON ASYLUM AND FARM SCHOOL for INDIGENT BOYS.

The object of the Boston Asylum, as stated in their Act, was “ relieving instructing and employing Indigent Boys ;” that of the Farm School Society, “ the education and reformation of boys, who, from loss of parents or other causes, were exposed to extraordinary temptations and in danger of becoming vicious and dangerous or useless members of society.” Whether by design or not, the Act of Incorporation of the united society followed the words used by the Asylum, rather than those of the Farm School : “ The funds of the said Corporation shall be managed and appropriated for relieving instructing and employing Indigent Boys.”

Judging however from words used in the first Report on the establishment of the Farm School, and from its early records it would seem that there has been a change as the years have gone by. “ Truants from our public schools and idlers in our streets and on our wharves, where they pass a large part of their time in vagrancy”—“ boys who are daily and hourly exposed to the contagion of vice, and growing up in idle and pernicious habits, from which perhaps a few may, by fortunate circumstances, be reclaimed before they arrive at manhood ; while by far the greater will be hurried to an early death, the victims of intemperance and want, or live on only to prey upon the community, fill our almshouses and prisons, increase the burdens and enemies of the state"—words like these, point to a class of boys of a lower character than the present scholars. The change has gradually come about, with the approval and under the auspices of the past managers of the school. A list of these shows such a succession of names held in honored remembrance for their benevolence and sagacity, that we should hesitate to condemn a policy which they had approved, even if it commended itself less strongly to our own judgement. We believe that the state and municipal institutions for reform, so largely increased since the union of the two societies, are sufficient for the work they undertake to do ; and the presence of boys needing reformation must be injurious to those who are guilty of no greater fault than poverty. The standard of character among the boys cannot fail to be raised if it is understood that vice is a ground of exclusion from their ranks. The Admission Committee act upon this principle by selecting only good boys from the numbers whose parents or guardians offer them for admission. Graduation from our school is looked upon as a guarantee of respectability by all who are familiar with the facts.

The Superintendent, in his last annual report, says : "Wherever we send our boys, others are wanted, and the demand for them has of late years been greater by far than the supply. I frequently have words like the following spoken to me — 'I can get boys enough ; but I have seen such as come from your school, or heard of them, and want one like them'..... But the school needs to be more generally known, to be fully appreciated. It is now looked upon by very many persons as a penal or pauper institution. It is often confounded with city institutions at Deer Island and with the Reform School at Westboro. Many of our best graduates in active life feel this perversion of name and place ; and while not thinking it any disgrace to have been a pupil here, are sensitive about its being known, lest it hurt or cause them annoyance in the estimation of their associates or business friends. Be this feeling wise or unwise, it exists to a great extent to my certain knowledge ; and can be eradicated only by the real merits and work of the school being known."

On the other hand a goodly list might be made of men today in positions of responsibility and honor before the community, whose early years were passed as pupils of the Farm School, and who are glad to keep alive their remembrance of those days by visits to the island and practical assistance to the institution.

THOMPSON'S ISLAND

lies about 4 miles down the harbor ; and its southerly point extends to within less than a mile of the part of North Quincy known as Squantum. A more healthy spot for a school could hardly be found than this island. Pure sea breezes, the shade of trees, a thorough system of drainage, with a healthful out-door life alternating with mental instruction, and the constant attention and care of the superintendent, have secured a wonderful freedom from sickness. Under the present superintendent only three boys out of eight hundred have died of disease : a death-rate of one in two hundred and sixty six during the last twenty seven years.

The Island contains one hundred and fifty acres of land of which one hundred acres are under cultivation. The Managers have begun the experiment of reclaiming the two large salt marshes, by diking out the sea and cultivating the drained surface. There are two barns an old and a new one — the latter of which is a fine building with all necessary sheds, and other conveniences. In them are kept more than twenty Jersey cattle, whose progenitors were imported, and were presented to the School by the Massachusetts Society for promoting Agriculture. A yoke of cattle, two horses, with sheep, pigs and fowls complete the live stock.

Toward the southerly part of the Island, there is a small house, used as a residence by the teacher.

The main building stands on the highest part of the island, and commands an extensive and beautiful view of the city its harbor and surrounding country. From north to south the length is 135 feet, and from east to west 110 feet; with a width of 40 and 36 feet respectively. The first floor contains a washroom, kitchen, dining hall, and office. The second, a spacious school room, apartments for the officers, store rooms for clothing, &c. The sleeping rooms on the third floor contain beds for about one hundred boys.

Close by the main building is a new brick edifice of two stories in height, 60 by 40 feet, erected in 1881, by the liberal contributions of friends of the Institution. Its upper floor is a large hall serving as a play room in wet weather, and as an exhibition room wherein the pupils entertain the visitors on "friends' days" with declamation, singing, and instrumental music.

The ground floor is fitted up as a carpenter shop and printing room, with the necessary benches and tools. A spacious dry and warm cellar extends under the whole building and contains a forge.

INSTRUCTION AND DISCIPLINE.

The establishment is under the immediate direction of the Superintendent. Few institutions have been as fortunate as this in the choice of persons well qualified to fill this post ; as is shown by the long terms of service of two of their number.

Daniel Chandler came with the boys to the Island and remained in charge from June 1835 to April 1839. The place was temporarily filled, part of the time by C. C. Felton, afterwards President of Harvard College, until the appointment, on June 10th. 1841, of Robert Morrison of Portsmouth. He and his wife remained as Superintendent and matron until June 8th. 1856—a period of fifteen years. Such a long term of these offices is the best proof of the zeal and ability of the holders. That there has been no decline in either respect, is evident from the fact that their immediate successors were William A. Morse and his wife who continue in office at this time. Mr. Morse had already been six years at the island as overseer of the farm when he was made Superintendent ; so that he has nearly completed the thirty-third year of his connection with the institution and the twenty-seventh year of his superintendency. But we hope he has not nearly reached the last year of his long and faithful service. Besides the Superintendent and matron there is a head master, Mr J. R. Morse, and an assistant, Miss Belding. The studies taught are reading, spelling, writing, written and mental arithmetic geography, grammar, history &c. Vocal and instrumental music are also taught. The skill attained by the band is such as surprises and delights visitors ; and boys who have shown a capacity and taste for music have in several instances obtained situations where they earned a good living, by following as a profession the art they began at the school. The new building, already spoken of as erected in 1881, was needed chiefly to carry out an idea of the Managers that something in the nature of an industrial school would be a useful addition to the course of study. Besides carpenters tools, a printing press with the necessary outfit of type etc, and a small forge have been erected. The experiment, although hardly more than a year old, has already shown the wisdom and practicability of the plan.

Under the immediate direction of Mr. C. H. Chapman, the older boys have become familiar with the care and use of carpenters tools, and acquire a degree of skill which must be valuable to them in whatever path of life they select on leaving the school. Some of the pupils have turned their attention rather to printing. As this pamphlet comes from our own press and is the work of our boys, it is needless to say anything farther of the skill they have acquired in the art.

A large part of the farm labor is done by the boys, who thus acquire a practical knowledge of husbandry. A small steamer belongs to the school, and is used during six months of the year for all necessary communications with the city, the superintendent holds an engineer's certificate, and under him some one boy, at least, is always gaining such a familiarity with a steam engine that he is ready, on leaving the school, to take a berth as an assistant engineer.

During one half of the year, one day in each month is appropriated to the visits of parents and friends of the pupils, who come in great numbers from the city by steamboat. These "friends' days" are a pleasant break in the routine of school life. About two hours is spent in social enjoyment.

The school, the farm, and the workshop, with constant moral training under the eye of the Superintendent, are the influences under which the boys are brought up and fitted to become useful members of the community. The age of admission is from seven to twelve. No exact period is fixed for discharge; as individual boys differ widely in their physical and mental developement. As a general rule it is expected that by the time he is sixteen years old a boy should be willing and able to go out and make a start in life for himself.

The Discharge Committee receives the applications of farmers or others who desire to hire boys ; or in cases where a pupil shows a strong love and aptitude for any particular pursuit, efforts are made to place him where he can follow out the bent of his mind. Good evidence of the employer's respectability and fitness for the trust he undertakes are demanded in all cases : and if the inquiries are satisfactorily answered the boy leaves the island to begin the world.

STATISTICS.

The number of boys at the Island is generally about one hundred — which is about as many as can well be accommodated and cared for.

On the first of January, 1883, the number was 99—of whom 32 had neither parent living and 45 had one parent only. 79 were born in Massachusetts. 37 had been admitted and 28 discharged in the preceding year.

The farm products for 1882 were estimated in the Superintendents report at the value of over $ 4,000.00. He added : “ We use a vast amount of products here for family and stock. It is useless to attempt to cultivate more ground than we can manure well ; and we need such a variety of crops to meet consumption here that we cannot raise a great surplus of either kind. Therefore our marketing is limited. We had fully twenty acres under the plow the last year. Our pasturing is so limited that we are obliged to plant several acres of corn or other fodder for summer use for the stock, besides feeding some hay.”

From the above statement it will be seen that the expenses exceed the income by $1714.56 and if the payment made by the Overseers of the Poor for the board of boys who have a settlement in the city had not been made, the expenses would have exceeded the receipts by about $4200. In previous years this deficit would have amounted in like circumstances to over $5000. It is necessary therefore, in order to place the school on a permanent and self supporting foundation, that the sum of $100,000 should be raised. Of this sum we have reason to expect from bequest subject to a life interest, a sum equal to $35,000. leaving $65,000. to be raised by subscription.

Provided, that any such boy, who shall not have been surrendered to said Corporation in the manner herein provided, may be withdrawn from the Institution, or the person to whom he is bound, by his parent or guardian, upon payment to said Corporation of the expenses incurred by them in the relief, support, and instruction of such boy.

SECTION 6.—Be it further enacted, That the said two former Corporations shall continue to exist, so far only as to enable them to take any donation made to them by will or otherwise; and, in case of such donation, it shall be lawful for the Corporation hereby created, as the agent and successor of either of such former Corporations, to demand and receive such donation, and give a sufficient discharge and release therefor, which shall be as valid as if made by the Corporation to which said donation shall be given. Notice of the time and place of every meeting shall be given by an advertisement in some newspaper published in Boston, at least four days previous to the meeting.

ARTICLE III.

BOARD OF MANAGERS.

The Board of Managers shall consist of the President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary and Managers; four of whom shall constitute a quorum.

At the first meeting of the Board of Managers, after the Annual Meeting of the Corporation in each year, the following Committees shall be appointed by nomination of the President subject to the approbation of the Board, namely :

1. An Executive Committee of Five, with the addition of the Treasurer, to represent the Board of Managers and to take the immediate charge of the School, including the household, farm and supplies, with authority over all expenditures not made by either of the committees hereinafter named. This Committee shall hold stated meetings, at which the Superintendent shall have opportunity to propose expenditures, and none shall be made by him without the approval of the Committee. The same Committee shall provide for visiting the School at stated times. Two members of the Committee shall constitute a quorum.

2. An Admission Committee of three, to investigate each application for admission as to age, health, birth-place, settlement and all other qualifications; and if it be granted, to admit the applicant, and to report it in a formal admission paper to the Superintendent, or if refused, to report it to the Managers. On admitting a boy, the Committee will require from the parent or guardian, if any, a surrender of the boy, or else an agreement to leave him to the entire control of the Managers during his stay at the School, and in the latter case, the parent or guardian shall be urged to make some reasonable payment towards the boy's expenses.

3. A Discharge Committee of three, to discharge the boys and to procure situations or homes for them, as soon as they are prepared to leave the School.

Each of the above Committees shall meet at least once a month, and shall report in writing to each monthly meeting of the Managers.

4. A Finance Committee of two, to advise the Treasurer as to the mode of keeping his books, accounts and securities, the investment of money, and the management of the real and personal estate belonging to the Corporation.

5. A Committee on the Williams Bequest, of three members, to attend to the performance of the conditions of that bequest. For this purpose they shall be supplied at the commencement of their duties with a printed form specifying these conditions, and they shall report within the first two months of their appointment, whether these conditions have been complied with, or whether the subject matter will need further attention during the year.

ARTICLE V.

TREASURER.

The Treasurer shall receive and have the care of all moneys and securities belonging to the Corporation, and shall manage the same under the direction of the Board of Managers. He shall consult with the Finance Committee, as hereinbefore provided, at the annual meeting, and at all other times when required, he shall render a full account of the pecuniary concerns of the Institution.
